The web page you are viewing is managed and maintained by the unified Pennsylvania judicial system as a source of public information. The web page is not affiliated with any public record search system provided by private organizations for which fees can be supported. The ability to search and review the information contained in these web docket sheets is a free public service. Cases of the District Court: On April 1, 2012, AOPC implemented a new protocol in its Magisterial District Judge System to ensure that when official documents of an individual case were or should have been destroyed in accordance with the Record Retention and Disposition Schedule with Guidelines ("Schedule") promulgated under Pa.R.J.A. No. 507 that the web card will no longer be accessible. These actions are consistent with the purpose of the Program to implement the record layout consistently throughout the UJS. Therefore, the destruction of the official record within the meaning of the Program will also lead to electronic registry information relating to the record no longer accessible to the public. Philadelphia City Court and common cases of the Court of Justice: When a case search from Philadelphia County is conducted using "other criteria", the search results will include all applicable cases of Philadelphia Municipal Court (MC) and Pleas Common Court (CP). In Philadelphia County, MC has the initial expertise in treating each onearrest in Philadelphia and conducts wrong processes and preliminary hearings for all cases of crime. Therefore, some cases, such as those involving crimes, will initially be deposited in MC, but will be judged in the CP. Thus, some cases will have both a number of MC and CP dockets that concern the same accident or offenses. To determine whether an MC case has a relative CP case (or vice versa), please review the field "field docket number" that appears on the docket web sheet (see page one in the case information section). In particular, if an MC case has a corresponding CP case, the number of CP dockets will most often be referred to as the "number of dockets of the transverse court" on the docket web sheet for the MC. Similarly, if a CP case has a corresponding MC case, the MC case docket number will most often be referred to as the "transverse court docket number" on the CP case web docket sheet to view the information related to the 'number' and 'ear older' of cases migrated from the county legacy systems to CPCMS. Although not all cases have been migrated, this chart will provide a general guideline regarding the age of a criminal case available by the Court of Common Pleas Web Docket Sheet. The unified judicial system of Pennsylvania provides full public access to online court documents and on request. Access the aggregated numerical data of all courts, including case load data, information on interactive data collections and dashboards.
